Dear [REDACTED],

I hope this message finds you well. I want to formally raise a complaint regarding the recent announcement of Sibanye Stillwater IRMA audit participation process. It has come to our attention that this initiative does not adequately include the outskirts of our directly affected community members. Many elderly individuals and youth lack access to smartphones and the internet, thereby excluding them from participating in this crucial process.

Additionally, there are significant ongoing violations by the mine that severely impact our community, including smelter emissions, tailing dam safety concerns, and persistent sewer spillages. These issues remain unresolved, and it is vital that all community voices are heard in order to address these pressing matters effectively.

I urge you to reconsider the participation framework to ensure inclusivity for all affected residents. safety, health, and environmental awareness concerning the impact of mining activities in our community not conducted by the mine as requested by the community. It is crucial that we engage in meaningful consultations with residents to address their concerns and foster a collaborative approach to minimize adverse effects.

Together, we can ensure a sustainable future while prioritizing the well-being of our community members.

Please kindly acknowledge the receipt of this email.

Kinds regards
